

Information needed to host a Tech Memo or Tech Report on CoRIS:

1. fingernail photo (high resolution jpg is fine) of the cover of the technical memorandum/report (this can be made by dragging the PDF into an open Powerpoint blank presentation and then right clicking on the image to 'save as photo'.)
2. copy of the full PDF in the smallest size possible for posting to the CoRIS web site (the smallest file size that will allow graphs to still be readable-- images can be a bit grainy as necessary) Typically, less than 2 MB is good, but smaller is better. Contact CoRIS with questions.
3. where applicable, a PDF of each chapter/section of the tech. memo. in a press quality format (this is most relevant for large documents with multiple sections. This allows for easier download on the Web if users can select a chapter/section that they most need rather than downloading the full document, particularly if they have slow Web connections).
4. short description of the document's content (abstract)
5. name and contact email for the point of contact for the document (to be listed on the web page)
6. the document citation
7. where applicable, the CRCP Project ID #, Project Title, and name of the Principal Investigator
8. a list of 10-12 key words for the document (such as reef, fish, monitoring, protocol, Florida Keys, coral reef ecosystem, National Park Service, Natural Resource Program Center, etc.) that one might use to search for your document via Google or another web search tool.

Send the above information to coris.metadata@noaa.gov.
